Accredited Prior Learning (APL)

You may be able to use your previous experience and qualifications to make a claim for Accreditation of Prior Learning (APL).

APL is a process which allows you to gain credits from your prior learning (certified or uncertified) or experience outside of education, such as work experience. The awarding of APL credits can reduce the number of modules that you would need to study in order to complete your course, thus reducing the cost and duration.

If you wish to be considered for APL, you will be required to have a Personal Planning Session following this application, where you would discuss your previous learning in more detail with an academic member of our team.

47. Would you like to make a claim for APL prior to starting this course?
